THE LOCAL CYCLONE.

A. D. BENTON DESCRIBES THE EFFECTS OF THE STORM.

Large Trees Are Uprooted by the Fury of the Gale—The Track of the Storm Was a Quarter of a Mile Wide and Three-Quarters of a Mile Long.

A. D. Benton of the Wheeler ranch, two miles south of this city, was in town Wednesday and related the following remarkable story:

"Sunday last about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, a cyclone passed over the mountain southwest of the Wheeler ranch, where I reside. The track was about three-fourths of a mile wide. A roaring sound somewhat like the roar of the ocean, accompanied it. The storm continued but a few minutes. The hail and snow fell in circles in the canyon west of the Wheeler house, a quarter of a mile distant. The storm traveled from the southwest in a northeasterly direction.

Large trees were uprooted; also very large limbs of oaks, madrones, and fir were scattered in various directions. Large oaks and some fir were twisted off some twenty or thirty feet from the base of the trees, some measuring thirty inches in diameter.

"Mountain trails and sled-roads were obstructed by broken limbs and uprooted manzanita brush. It appears that from the time the storm struck the timber to have been quite severe for a distance of about three-fourths of a mile, its fury abating in the Wheeler canyon, two miles south of Ukiah.

"Two men were at the mouth of the canyon hauling wood, and received a pelting with hailstones. Others were looking on, and wondering what was coming. The storm was very peculiar. The leaves of the trees seemed to wilt very rapidly, and others appeared to be scorched. This was a small affair, but who knows what to look for, as men are changing, customs are changing, and may not the element also change, and work destruction hitherto unknown"?

AT THE ALTAR.

Charles W. Wallace and Mrs. Eva Holman Married Wednesday.

Charles W. Wallace of Talmage and Mrs. Eva Holman of this city were married Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents in this city, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Waltrip.

The ceremony was performed by L. F. McCray in the presence of the family and relatives of the bride. After the wedding a superb luncheon was served and the happy couple took the train for the city.

Mr. Wallace has a position at the asylum. He has been connected with the institution ever since it was opened. He is very agreeable in his manners, and enjoys the respect and confidence of all who know him. His whole-souled, good-natured disposition gives him prominence among his friends and makes his relations to society pleasant and mellow.

The bride is well known, and is much beloved for her admirable traits of character. She is a woman of superior sense and excellent Christian graces, and is sure to discharge well and most efficiently her duties in the battling voyage of life. Mr. Wallace is to be congratulated in wooing and winning so amiable, graceful and cultured a lady to be his partner and companion for life in the journey of labor and love.

The congratulations and best wishes are extended to the handsome couple, as they enter into the joy of their wedded life. L.

Did Not Have a Rubber Neck.

Doc Standley rode a fine horse over from his home in Sherwood valley to Mendocino last week. He left the animal there with orders that it be brought over to this city at the first opportunity. The horse was tied behind Rose & Sanders' stage, and started off quite willingly. In coming down a grade on the Boonville line, however, the vehicle gave a slight start and the dreaming animal was suddenly disturbed. The horse objected to the rude awakening and sat down on his haunches to show the driver that he could not be coerced thus easily. The halter strap broke and the horse fell over the grade and landed on his neck. The neck could not stand the jolt, so the animal was left at the bottom of the chasm.

Off For Salem.

George W. Patrick, superintendent of the Round valley Indian reservation, was in town yesterday enroute for Salem, Or. He was accompanied by 28 Indian children from the reservation, whom he is escorting to the webfoot state, where they will be placed in the government training school. The children were selected for this honor by virtue of their superior intellectual brightness. The government school at Salem is on the same lines of the Carlisle school in Pennsylvania. The children will there be taught the useful arts of peace—such as carpentering, blacksmithing and dressmaking. They were about equally divided as to sex. The children were accompanied as far as this city by Dr. Aiken, reservation physician at Covelo.

PASSING OF A. V. STANFIELD.

Death of a Prominent Pioneer of Mendocino and Sonoma Counties.

The death of A. V. Stanfield, which occurred at his home in this city Saturday morning last, while not unexpected, was a severe blow to his many relatives and friends in this county and in the east. The deceased was a companionable man of more than ordinary intelligence. He was a native of Tennessee and was born September 13, 1825. He was graduated from Carlisle college, in Pennsylvania, and in June, 1846, and shortly after having received his degree he enlisted in the First regiment of Tennessee volunteers. He participated in the three heaviest battles of the Mexican war—Monterey, Cerro Gordo, and Vera Cruz. His hearing was permanently injured by the premature explosion of a cannon at the battle of Cerro Gordo. Mr. Stanfield was honorably discharged from the service in 1847, and three years thereafter immigrated to California via the Isthmus of Panama. He spent several years in the mines and located in Sonoma county in 1860. In 1861 he was married to Miss M. E. Burke, and in 1865 settled in Mendocino county, where e has since hresided. He leaves a widow and three childen—two daughters and a son. The deceased was buried Sunday afternoon, and the large number who attended the funeral obsequies was an evidence of the esteem in which he was held. The deceased was a prominent figure in the pioneer history of the Golden state. He was an excellent raconteur and while in a reminiscent mood was a brilliant entertainer. He had passed a little over the allotted limit of three score and ten and for some time past had been in feeble health.

An Hotel Destroyed by Fire.

The Pieta hotel, which for a year past had been very successfully conducted by William Furber of Lake county, was completely destroyed by fire Monday morning last. The fire was first discovered by the Chinese cook, and evidently caught from the falling of a cloth from the clothes line which was suspended near the stove. It was 1:30 in the morning when the flames were first seen. The structure was a wooden one, and burned so furiously that no chance was afforded to save any of the contents save two trunks. It was storming fiercely at the time and the occupants of the hotel, after narrowly escaping death from the flames, nearly perished from the inclement weather. Mr. Keiser, who was rooming in the upper story, climbed from the balcony to a tree growing alongside the house. He fell from the tree, and although severely hurt by the fall, escaped serious injury. The building was owned by an Italian named Paulo Bagliani.

Harvey Acquitted.

T. L. Carothers returned from San Francisco Tuesday, whither he had gone to defend W. E. Harvey of Hopland, who was indicted some time ago by the United States grand jury for having, it was alleged, sold liquor to Indians. Harvey was acquitted of the charge. The case was tried before Judge W. W. Morrow.

THE LAST ROUNDUP.

THE BALDFACED STEER AGAIN IN EVIDENCE.

A Jury in the United States District Court Acquits Ves Palmer in Five Minutes. The Bovine Relic of Persecution Is Now Permanently Retired.

It has cost the government of the United States many hundreds of dollars to find S. B. Palmer did not steal a steer worth $25. The case as it appeared in the records of the United States district court before Thursday last would have led the public to believe that Ves Palmer of the Long Ridge district, near Round valley, was a common cattle-thief; that he stole from the Mendocino County Indian reservation a baldfaced beef animal, and District Attorney H. S. Foote would have it "against the peace and dignity of the United States of American in such case made and provided," says The Call.

As a matter of fact and record this was one of the many side issues of the Round valley feud between the family of Palmer and George E. White, the ex-king of Round valley. Ves Palmer and White's gang had been at outs for years and many efforts were made by the latter to get Palmer out of the way. Palmer and his friends were as handy with their six-shooters as any of White's men, so that plan failed to work. In the course of the trouble Jack Littlefield was murdered by Joe Gregory and his crowd of ruffians. Gregory is now serving a thirty-year sentence for the crime and he has the companionship of others who assisted in riddling Littlefield's body with bullets and afterward hanging the mutilated corpse to a tree. And still there are others who are to be prosecuted for participation in the same outrage.

Palmer was one who knew all about the death of Jack Littlefield and it was on his testimony that Gregory and his companions were convicted. His store of knowledge is still far from being exhausted, and some who are still free fear for their future liberty. Up at Palmer's home he does not bear the reputation of being a cattle-thief, so such a charge there would have been to no purpose. However, some one got the case before the United States grand jury and a bill of indictment was found charging Ves with a crime against the federal laws. It took a long time to get the matter into the federal court, for the alleged crime was said to have been committed away back in 1894. District Attorney Foote did not propose that the government should be robbed of even a $25 baldfaced steer, for all that much time had elapsed. By some hook or crook the witnesses for Palmer were not brought from the mountains when the case was called Thursday last, although the subpenas had been issued.

However, the defendant's attorney, upon learning that the principal witness for the prosecution was the convict Joe Gregory, decided to go on, supported by only a few witnesses, such as Lem Sallady, John Simmons, the bear-slayer, and Frank Youree, all well known in Round valley history. Gregory was brought from prison and testified that the baldfaced steer in question was driven by Palmer from the reservation; that it was branded "U. S." and further marked by certain earmarks used by the government on its cattle. The defendant acknowledged that he drove from the reservation the steer in question and that he converted the animal into roasts and steaks. He said he had a right to do so because the animal belonged to his wife and that the creature was not branded or marked with the brand or earmarks of the government. The jury believed his story and returned a verdict of acquittal in less than three minutes.

There is still another feature to this many-pointed story of the Round valley feud and the killing of John Littlefield. Among the witnesses in the murder case is Frank Youree, who, like Palmer, is in the way of certain people. About the time that Palmer was indicted for cattle-stealing Youree was indicted by the federal grand jury for selling liquor to an Indian in violation of federal laws. The bill was put on the secret file. It is not known what efforts, if any, were made to serve the warrant for Youree's arrest, but nevertheless he did not go into hiding, and the bill has been on the secret file ever since. However, when the case of Palmer was called Thursday last, Youree was on hand and saved the marshal from the bother of making an arrest by putting up bail for his appearance in court when the liquor case is called.

Do You Want to Stop Drinking?

Inquired a young gentleman of a friend who had long been addicted to the liquor habit. "I certainly do," replied his friend. "Why do you ask?" "Because, if you do why don't you stop?" "That's easier said than done," responded the other. "I have tried time and again, but it's no go. I can't withstand the tempation. It's utterly impossible for me to resist. I don't possess the will power you did when you quit." "There was no exhibition of will power on my part," replied the other. "I found it as useless as yourself to resist the temptation; but I wanted to stop, so I experimented with the Fittz Alcohol Cure. It's easy to take; it builds up the system, and after the first five days the desire all leaves you. Consult Dr. G. W. Stout."

Pertinent Paragraphs Prepared for The Press.

March thought we had forgotten its lionlike accomplishments, so toward the close of last week we received a forcible reminder of the possibilities of its smothered ire. The lion roared until the urchin, who bravely scoffed at the protection offered by mother's apron string, was glad to return and cling there until the last echo died. The infuriated beast swished his tail about a number of fences in this heretofore sleeping village, and leveled them with the horizon, and numerous oak limbs were similarly dealt with. Ah, well, celebrate, old boy, even then you will be forgotten as we peep through smiling April's tears, bejeweling flower and shrub.

Apropos of April with all its awakening energies, what is Mendocino county going to do to show its enthusiasm during the Carnival of the Golden Gate? While we are rubbing our eyes, the southern counties are up and doing. Can we make no display, do nothing at all to advertise ourselves to such a vast concourse of people? We have fostered the growth of a lot of silurians a long time, and what Mendocino county now needs is to attract the progressive element that is being tutored with the idea that all that is valuable in California lies south of the Golden Gate, as it were. If Mendocino, with all its great possibilities, is not a more promising spot any day than the cactus plains of the south, I want to know it. What is to be done to prove to the many tourists who will witness all that display that Mendocinoites are among the living?

With the various notices throughout the county of the widespread reputation Mrs. Hudson's artistic progress is attracting, it reminds us of the rapid advance her pupil, Miss Pearl Fine, is also making in the artists' world. Her little studio is rapidly crowding with students, and it all brings to mind another Ukiah girl, who is making rapid strides in lines of art in San Francisco, Miss Etta White. Miss White's friends receive the most flattering reports of her progress, and since she is a bachelor-maid whose success depends entirely on her own efforts, she is the more to be complimented on her success.

No better notice appeared in this paper last week than the one in reference to the Sunday fistic display in the public square. With seven Christian sects doing their best to perfect a higher moral plane, then to have a display of that kind, usually ending in plenty of bad temper and more foul language, in the heart of our town on Sunday! Well, it was not to the credit of anyone concerned, and less to the authorities who tolerated it.

The second number of the Uki Ah Hi shows that little sheet to be climbing the ladder in the right direction. It is a decided improvement on the initial number. The article relative to "Woodenhead" struck the casual reader more as the venting of individual spleen, than the sentiment of the whole. It partook of journalistic mud-throwing too, something a school journal with so many higher intellectual possibilities within its grasp, should be free of. Maybe the poem — — — — — was in good taste, but the writer has always so sensitively felt, that true manly and womanly modesty should not allow one to joke or pun where the name of a good woman is concerned. Among men, where it all reverts to their sex, it may be all right, but where it makes the name of a young woman a sort of football, it does not seem in real good taste. This may all be the reasoning of an overly sensitive individual, yet it has good backing.

Regarding the Harvey affair at Hopland it looks to the man on the fence as if it were a matter of persecution now more than prosecution. There are a number of George Whites in that neighborhood evidently, and the place grows to have a Round valley like reputation. Mr. Harvey may have erred, but as matters progress the evidence of his trial in San Francisco suggests that he is sinned against as much as he sinned. If half the rumors from Sanel valley of purchased witnesses are true, there are certainly others whose cases need attention as badly as Mr. Harvey's. That neighborhood has long been infested with a set who sell themselves for a drink, and when the law abiding citizens weary of this, it is likely to be very interesting for the spectator.

Speaking of Hopland's good people reminds us that Henry Barker was in this city last week, and everyone knows that he is the salt of the earth. Miss Blanche Thatcher also smiled on her friends here through last Saturday's storm.

Ukiah has not been quite so lively socially the past week. Mrs. J. B. McClure entertained delightfully a number of friends at cards on one occasion, where delicious refreshments and pretty prizes were not the least of the attractions. She also gave a dainty tea, and pretty favors were borne away to remind the fortunate guest of a pleasure where "her name was on the list." Mr. and Mrs. Richard Crane recently entertained in a very charming manner a few near friends to whom they were socially indebted.

The Merry Milkmaids is the alluring social attraction of the future in this city. Pretty girls and handsome boys, sweet music, a chance to laugh and a hand-painted souvenir program. Could we ask more? "Take the good the gods provide thee." You will never forgive yourself if you miss it.

To one with no knowledge of the facts, the pupils of the Grammar school passed on to the ground, and into the building in their accustomed way on Monday morning. But to one knowing, they noticed a softer tread, the ring of merry voices had lost some of their accustomed cheer, for a teacher wept over a loss never to be repaired, and no more would the bent form of the white-haired janitor make cherry the school house, or bend close to a pair of rosy childish lips to hear that old request: "May I have the next chalk box?" Mr. Stanfield was as much a necessity to the juvenile student as his school, but the comforts he attended for the pupil will henceforth be performed by other hands. As the funeral discourse suggested, "the gates of eternity opened at 9 a. m. Saturday last, and the soul of him who had pulled against life's tide for three score summers and winters passed hence."

Still following the thought of the funeral sermon: "Life is a mighty vessel taking a year, or years to perfect, and when complete slips forth from this earth, its dock, into the boundless ocean of eternity, and it must be rest and peace, for no soul ever returns." So be it to the soul of him who battled so bravely in life's sunshine and shadows for so many years. The myriads of flowers which came from school-child and friend were a fitting tribute to the old soldier whose coffin was also so feelingly embraced in the stars and stripes he had fought to protect. One of the most noticable of the floral pieces was one of harvested grains, so symbolical of the life that had been garnered in after all its fullness thereof, by the remorseless reaper of time.

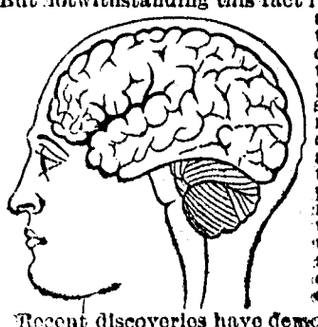
MYSTERIES!

The Nervous System the Seat of Life and Mind. Recent Wonderful Discoveries.

No mystery has ever compared with that of human life. It has been the leading subject of professional research and study in all ages. But notwithstanding this fact it is not generally known that the seat of life is located in the upper part of the spinal cord, near the base of the brain, and so sensitive is this portion of the nervous system that even the prick of a needle will cause instant death.



Recent discoveries have demonstrated that all the organs of the body are under the control of the nerve centers, located in or near the base of the brain, and that when these are deranged the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged. When it is remembered that a serious injury to the spinal cord will cause paralysis of the body below the injured point, because the nerve force is prevented by the injury from reaching the paralyzed portion, it will be understood how the derangement of the nerve centers will cause the derangement of the various organs which they supply with nerve force.

Two-thirds of chronic diseases are due to the imperfect action of the nerve centers at the base of the brain, not from a derangement primarily originating in the organ itself. The great mistake of physicians in treating these diseases is that they treat the organ rather than the nerve centers which are the cause of the trouble.

DR. FRANKLIN MILES, the celebrated specialist, has profoundly studied this subject for over 30 years, and has made many important discoveries in connection with it, chief among them being the facts contained in the above statement, and that the ordinary methods of treatment are wrong. All headache, dizziness, fulness, confusion, pressure, blues, mania, melancholy, insanity, epilepsy, St. Vitus' dance, etc., are nervous diseases no matter how caused. The wonderful success of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is due to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principle.

DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVINE is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by DR. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.
